LAS VEGAS (Aug. 17, 2015) – Skye Canyon, a 1,700-acre master-planned community in Northwest Las Vegas, attracted more than 1,200 prospective homebuyers to its First Look, a model home preview, on Saturday, Aug. 1, 2015 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. The event featured 10 model homes from the community’s first two builders Pulte Homes, Inc. and Woodside Homes; Century Communities will unveil its models later this year. Both Pulte and Woodside reported selling homes within the first few hours of the event, proving the excitement over the first master-planned development to break ground in Las Vegas in nearly 10 years. During the event, guests toured Skye Canyon model homes, viewed renderings of the community and its amenities and participated in a Base Camp Passport Giveaway that offered the opportunity to win prizes from Las Vegas Ski & Snowboard Resort, The Resort at Mt. Charleston and Osprey, a leading brand of backpacks.

“It’s clear from the turnout at First Look that homebuyers in Las Vegas are ready for a community like Skye Canyon – one that considers their priorities in terms of leading an active lifestyle, engaging in their community and offering a blend of urban amenities with easy access to outdoor recreation,” said Garry Goett, CEO of Olympia Companies, developer of Skye Canyon. Goett notes that since the event, interest in the community continues to accelerate.

At completion, Skye Canyon, a base camp for the great outdoors, will offer 9,000 homes from entry-level to move-up and luxury, along with a gaming location and various retail locations. Skye Canyon’s amenities include designated bike lanes on all major streets, an extensive network of hiking and biking trails, community parks, among others. The social hub of the community will be Skye Canyon Park with an 8,142-square-foot contemporary rustic community center, Skye Center, which will include a
